The WELL Building Standard (“WELL”) was launched in October 2014 administered by the International WELL Building Institute (“IWBI”). It is a comprehensive rating system for measuring, certifying, and monitoring features of buildings that impact our health. It is comprised of seven concept areas – air, water, light, nourishment, fitness, comfort, and minds. Each concept introduces the scientific and medical basis for each area so long with design and construction strategies to create healthy built environments. WELL Certified™ spaces and developments can lead to a built environment that improves the nutrition, fitness, mood, sleep, comfort and ultimately, performance of its occupants. Like other green building standards, such as BEAM Plus and LEED, WELL Certification can be applied to different project types. For commercial buildings, there are three categories new and existing buildings, new and existing interiors, and core and shell. In this training, Ms Victoria Gilbert – past Vice President at IWBI, will introduce the ideology, structure and certification process of WELL and share experience of some WELL Certified™ projects in Asia. This course is eligible for 2.0 WELL-specific CE hours for WELL Accredited Professional (WELL AP).

Speaker – Victoria Gilbert

Victoria is an experienced sustainability professional with extensive international consulting experience. Previously in her role as Vice President at IWBI, Victoria was instrumental in the launch and expansion of WELL in Asia Pacific. She has consulted on over 25 projects in the region, including completing the first project to achieve WELL Certification in Asia. She has worked closely with many real estate companies, major developers and multinational companies. Victoria established the WELL Faculty network in Asia and continues to play an active role in the global wellness community, leading and participating in events and knowledge sharing forums. She has as a thorough understanding of building and design, maintaining her WELL Faculty, WELL AP, LEED AP ID+C and RESET AP credentials.
