Environmental impact assessment (EIA) is an essential process to ensure the environmental factors are considered at all stages of project planning and development. EIA Ordinance was introduced 20 years ago and provides the legal framework for applying the EIA process to designated projects. With increasing public scrutiny and judicial review of several EIA projects, can Hong Kong be keeping pace with new developments in EIA? This 6-hour course aims to help the business sector keep abreast of essential knowledge of EIA and strategic environmental assessment (SEA) and related statutory requirements in Hong Kong.
